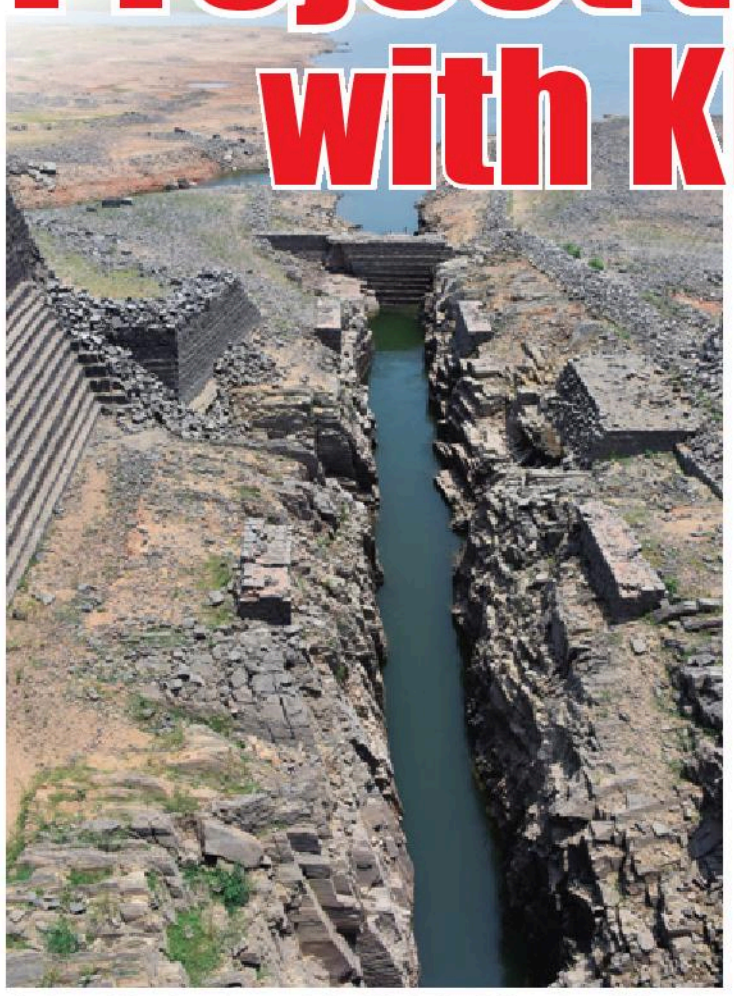
Project to fill 13 Lakes with KRS backwaters



A view of backwaters and the Right Bank Low Level Canal at Krishna Raja Sagar Dam as on June 4, 2019.

By M.T. Yogesh Kumar

Mysuru, June 8- Lakes in and around Mysuru have neared historic lows and some have gone dry this summer as searing heat and parched ground have sucked up massive amounts of water. Considering the fast depletion of water in lakes, a life source for both humans and animals, the State Government has drawn up a massive pilot project to supply water from KRS Dam backwaters directly to 13 lakes in Mysuru including the Lingambudhi Lake.

While the Lingambudhi Lake comes within the city limits, all the other 12 lakes come under Chamundeshwari Constituency. Water will be supplied to the lakes from KRS backwaters by laying pipelines without any chance of wastage.

Effort and efficiency

The days following the announcement of public examination results, particularly flashing names of students, along with their photographs, even images of parents in celebrating mode and mood in dailies of all hues are marked by reporters accosting the celebrity rank-holders giving them an opportunity to reveal the enormous effort behind scoring high marks, in fact maximum marks, many of them not forgetting to highlight the efficiency in preparing for the dreaded event. The teenagers, virtually the heroes and the heroines of the moment seem to have adhered to the principle of not only doing the right things but also doing them the right way, the outlook missed by most people in society. Given the number of subjects to be studied and nature of questions to be answered in a short time, the occasion finds the students facing the proverbial multi-tasking situation, with the challenge of not screw up by following the time-honoured rule: One thing at a time and that done well, an antidote to do too many things at once.

The advisory that the wise often stress namely, vigil about the drawbacks of splitting attention, such as in instances of talking on mobile phone while driving an automobile, and doing poorly in all actions doesn't seem to have many takers. Multitasking requires the tasks to be done in succession rather than simultaneously, bringing one to the point of efficiency.

Efficiency in executing any task, being a matter of skill complementing concentration, can often be cause for envy and souring relationships. If someone interrupts or verbally engages one who is busy, discretion calls for stopping the work, engage with the person and then resume. A motivational speaker has rightly opined that life need not be accepted as a sprint race but, more sensibly, as a long distance marathon. The feeling of having too much to do, but not enough time, being a reality in case of a large number of people, make it imperative to provide slots of time for the tasks in the order of their importance and urgency.

The most valuable resource needed for completing tasks being time, which cannot be stopped from ticking, it is rewarding to introspect on activities that are considered as waste of time and take care to skip them in daily life. Checking mail, watching television, playing video games, conversation on mobile phones, not to forget gossiping, and so on have been highlighted by the cognoscenti as examples of effort ignoring efficiency.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

India is among the world's fastest growing economies. Yet, many economic challenges remain. Corporate investment and exports — twin engines that typically propel growth in most economies — are sputtering. The labour market is tepid. Jobs are scarce. Tax buoyancy has failed to materialise. Banks are under-capitalised. Increasingly, Non-Banking Finance Companies (NBFCs) have started showing signs of stress. And the debt-fuelled consumption binge has come to an end. How did we reach this "growth without story?" The question is both important and urgent. To paraphrase the Nobel Laureate Paul Romer, once one starts thinking about these questions, it is difficult to think about anything else.

NEWS SPARKLERS

Pink tap water is apparently safe to drink at this village

Coal Grove: Residents of Coal Grove in Ohio, recently woke up to see pink coloured water flowing through their taps. While many were alarmed, authorities assured everyone that the water was safe to drink, but could stain the clothes.

Residents were shocked to find that the water flowing through their taps had turned vibrant pink. After receiving dozens of calls from alarmed citizens, local authorities issued a statement apologising for the situation and explaining that the unusual water coloration was the result of a pump malfunction at the water treatment plant which resulted in too much Sodium Permanganate being released into the distribution tank. They also assured people that the water was safe to drink, as laboratory samples showed that the sodium permanganate levels were below the health risk guidelines of the EPA.

Millionaire puts up billboards to find love

Utah: A millionaire has been making news headlines for his unusual approach to finding a new wife – by posting large billboards on roadsides in Utah asking women to audition for an exclusive group date.

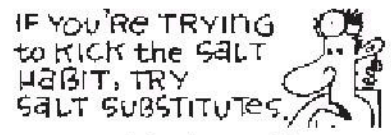
The billboards read "LDS Millionaire looking for his wife," and invited potential candidates to sign up for an "exclusive VIP event" on June 7, via a custom website. The ads were pretty basic, and you would be excused if you thought they were a joke, but according to self-proclaimed "LDS matchmaker" Erin Schurtz, they are legit.

Well, he definitely reached his goal, as by Monday May 7, 326 women had already signed up for the exclusive event, a group date with the mysterious millionaire.

Considering the billboards were left up until May 30, as well as the attention generated by media coverage, the final number of applicants probably reached into the thousands.

HEALTH CAPSULE by Bron Smith

What are some easy ways to cut down on salt?



To lower your salt intake, avoid processed foods and fast foods. About 75% of salt intake comes from processed foods. Buy unsalted butter. Break the habit of salting the food on your plate. Add garlic, ginger, vinegar, onions, bay leaves, oregano or cumin to compensate for the salt taste.

VOICE OF THE READER

HAPPY at what you are doing?

Sir,

The article titled "Are you HAPPY at what you are doing?" by N.K.A. Ballal in Star of Mysore dated June 6 is worth reading several times. We, as adults, frame the future of our child by fixing two lines and expect them to fit their future within this framework.

We never try to identify their interest in subjects and lay our rules and expect them to score 90 plus every time. Some times this goes one step further and we create hatred within the group by pointing out the marks scored by other students thinking that this is a motivating factor to score more.

It is rightly mentioned in the article that "Things" can never makes us happy because they are temporary for which I wish to quote my own example from my life. At the initial days after marriage, I wanted my wife to support me financially and without waiting for her consent, I made her to join gainful (Bank) employment. In fact, she was expressing her willingness to work for the benefit of society without relating to the earning.

This went on for 28 years and finally she took a bold decision to resign her job and she is now an Honorary Counsellor after passing the required stages/examinations/training. She is enjoying her role in reconciling families and often shares her experience with me. The enjoyment of helping needy people she gets out of her present assignment can only be experienced and can never be measured. I too silently enjoy the satisfaction she is deriving out of her happiness !

I fully agree with the concluding lines: "Do not do anything to impress others. We become successful by what we get, but we become happy by what we give." View life beyond money to enjoy the rest of your lives.

Pay water bill at click of mouse from June 10

- Bills can be paid through various UPI platforms
- Decision announced by Mayor at MCC Council meeting

Mysuru, June 8 (SBD&BCT)- From June 10, residents of city can pay water bills online. This will help residents pay bills at the click of a mouse sitting at the convenience of their home or office.

Similar to the electricity bills, water bill can also be paid online using UPI facilities. Reducing the burden of visiting the MCC water offices and waiting to pay bills, the civic body will open the facility from June 10. This announcement was made by Mayor Pushpalatha Jagannath at the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) Council meeting held at Nalwadi Krishnaraja Auditorium at MCC Office last evening.

Not only can residents pay bills through UPI platforms, the MCC will make arrangements on their website for payment. The MCC has entered into an agreement with Bharat Bill Payment System, an online integrated service that allows consumers to pay various government agencies through UPI platforms. Once the water bill payment is streamlined, the MCC is expected to introduce online system to pay property tax that has been demanded by the residents.

The Mayor said, "Preparations are being made to launch online water bill payment system from Monday (June 10)." MCC is also planning to send SMS alerts on registered mobile numbers at the end of each month. The SMS would include the water bill amount, last date to pay the bill and a link to their website.

This will ensure transparency and more than anything, it is convenient to the public. With every SMS, public will receive an online link making the payment swift. Soon, MCC metre readers will visit every house to collect mobile phone number of every resident so that it can be registered.

MCC Commissioner Shilpa Nag said, "Following the launch of water bill payment system, it has been also planned to introduce a similar system to enable the property holders to pay taxes. The required data of number of properties have been collected and the orders have been also issued to implement the system through Karnataka State Electronics Development Corporation Limited (KEONICS)."

This apart, services of BSNL will be sought to send bulk SMSes to the property holders, she said.

Mayor Pushpalatha Jagannath flanked by MCC Commissioner Shilpa Nag and Deputy Mayor Shafi Ahmed during the MCC Council meeting held at Nalwadi Krishnaraja Auditorium last evening.

As the decision was announced, several Corporators demanded that the MCC must implement the online system of property tax only after studying the success stories in other City Corporations. Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP), Mangaluru, Shivamogga and Hubballi-Dharwad City Corporations have already implemented online system to pay property tax.

Four teams including Corporators and officers will soon be visiting Tumakuru, Mangaluru, Hubballi - Dharwad and Shivamogga City Corporations separately and study the online tax payment. Based on the study and their reports, the MCC will choose the best system adopted in any one of the Corporation, the Commissioner added.

The Corporators demanded that along with officers, all Corporators too must be sent to other Corporations in batches so that they too are made aware of how the online system works there and how it can be best implemented in Mysuru.

Revenue from display of ads at Trin Trin docking stations

The MCC has given permission to the Tourism Department to display its advertisements at the docking stations of Trin Trin Public Bicycle Sharing System. This move will help MCC generate revenue for maintaining the popular project.

Raising the issue at the MCC Council meeting, officers said that the Government, which had promised to provide Rs.20 crore to the project, had sanctioned just Rs.10.7 crore. Out of this, the MCC has used Rs.7.10 crore and the civic body is spending Rs.3 crore for its maintenance in which already Rs.1.54 crore has been spent.

Officers said that the MCC was getting a profit of Rs. 44.3 lakh through registration but was facing a loss in maintenance. So it was decided during the meeting to have advertisements at the docking centre which can generate revenue.

However, Commissioner Shilpa Nag said that though Trin Trin was not a revenue-generating project, the Tourism Department has come forward to provide Rs.1.74 crore to display its advertisements in 28 docking stations.

The advertisement bylaw is before the Government for more than a year. It will not affect the decision to display advertisement in this project, she said.

ISSUE OF LED LIGHTS FOR STREETS

Corporators Ayub Khan, B.V. Manjunath and S.B.M. Manju raised the issue regarding replacing the existing energy-consuming street-light bulbs with energy-efficient LED lights. Responding to this, Commissioner Shilpa Nag said that already an agency appointed by the State Government had conducted an energy audit and has recommended replacing 2,480 street-lights with LED lights.

The project is being taken up in Public-Private-Partnership model and tenders have been called," she said. Ayub Khan, however, said that there were more than 4,500 street-lights which need to be replaced and only three months are left for Dasara celebrations to start. The MCC should immediately take up replacing LED bulbs to complete the project before Dasara, he said.

This year's first Bird Census at Ranganathittu tomorrow

Mysuru, June 8 (MTY&BCT)- Over 12 bird scientists and experts and 30 Forest Department staff and volunteers will conduct this year's first Bird Census at Ranganathittu Bird Sanctuary in Srirangapatna on June 9 (tomorrow). The census will begin at 6 am and will continue till 9.30 am.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Deputy Conservator of Forests (DCF) Dr. K.C. Prashanth Kumar said that the volunteers will be split into teams and will be assigned certain islands in different boats.

Volunteers will count the birds, their habitat and nests, their habitat preference will also be recorded as the Department can improve their habitat and understand their preferences. "We are doing this for the management of the Sanctuary based on scientific lines. The data will be compiled for Ramsar Site (wetlands of international importance) tag," he said.

Methods such as Total Count Method, Nest Count Method and Photographic Method will be adopted during the census. The average of these three counts will be taken for analysis. Bird watchers and volunteers will create groups and will network together and work on solving ecological issues.

There are a total of 28 islands at Ranganathittu and five teams will be formed with each team having six members and accordingly five boats will be used by the counting groups. Through the data collected, the Department will be able to understand the bird patterns better. Migratory patterns, nesting patterns can be studied so that a suitable habitat can be built for them, Prashanth Kumar added.

The census will not hamper tourism activities at the islands and visitors can as usual come to the Bird Sanctuary at 8.30 am and there will be no restrictions on their movements due to bird counting, he said.

Looking at elections

in historical perspective

In ancient times, election was a divine affair particularly in theology which meant chosen by God. Thus it was a selection by the clergy who represented God. In Latin, it was ligerilect which meant pick. In ancient times, a judge was also considered as a divine person to help people get salvation. Thus in ancient Greece and Rome, people believed in the hand of divinity in the process of selection.

Subsequently it came to be known as election. Members of the House of Commons in England followed this process. People to the House of Nobles were picked up depending on their status, their relationship or nearness to the King and Queen of England and they were nominated accordingly. Thus it was a Government by the best citizens, Supremacy of privileged order, Oligarchy, and ruling by a body of nobles from which ruling body was drawn, the best representatives of an intellectual body. This is derived from Greek Aristocracia (aristo means best, grand, stylish and hence Aristocracy).

The just-concluded elections in our country can be seen with this background. This time, it was a landslide victory for BJP which was unprecedented in recent history. Narendra Damodardas Modi became our Prime Minister.

The beauty of this great election, however, was marred by bad slogans and comments by Opposition parties. This is to say the least, not a good trend. In America and other countries, contesting candidate blows his own trumpet and never utters a word against the other candidates. Opposition parties badmouthed Modiji and voters taught them a befitting lesson.

In many countries, law makers are elected by qualified electorate. In some countries like France and United States of America, voters may directly participate in specific policy decisions. That means all the proposals put up by the Governments need not be accepted either partially or in toto. Thus this rider will help the members take their own decisions.

In elections at some countries, the winning candidates share the national vote which is often less than 55% of the total votes. Elections in non-democratic countries also fall in line as above.

In Parliamentary and Congressional systems followed by Britain and many other countries, the Parliamentary system of Government is a fusion of Executive and Legislature. In these countries, Legislators in-turn elect the Prime minister. In other words, the eligible voters in India vote in the elections and thus it is superior and gives a chance to elect their representatives.

In some countries having Parliamentary system, there are some requirements and most important factor is the tenure of the Prime Minister and other Ministers. Some countries have seven years while others have six years. But our country, after serious deliberations, has fixed a five-year term for all elections.

Seven years may be too long and if the Ministry is bad, people have to suffer and hence our country has fixed five years. In USA, voting takes place by a special college of electorates which elects the President. This has a defect, namely all the subjects do not participate in electing their representative. In USA, the election of the President and members of Congress are held in even-numbered years. The President may not serve for more than two terms.

Elections were held in the Greek City - States in 5th and 6th centuries BC. Most public offices were filled up by those who believed in the equality of all citizens. But some officers were fortunate because of their qualifications. Though it put certain restrictions, it may be useful.

For example, one who has no knowledge of technical education cannot effectively work in engineering and scientific departments. Even if they are not qualified technically, they are assisted by top technicians and this has been working well in our country. For example, a Railway Minister need not run a train but he should regulate the timings as well as food requirements and other conveniences of the passengers.

During the Middle Ages in Europe, elections were held in Church and high Bishops were elected that way. Thus religion played important roles. This is not the case in India. The clergy can contest the elections but he will be treated as any other candidate.

There are many elections such as general elections, by-election due to the death of a candidate or if he resigns. But all elections have to be held according to the period prescribed by each country. Local elections are held for local bodies like Municipal Corporations and Town even in villages for the requirement of their leaders. Thus big or small elections cannot be overlooked. That is the strength of a successful Democracy.

In many foreign countries, participation of voters is rather less. But in India it is generally over fifty percent. This is satisfactory indeed. In Vedic times, two institutions were there and they are Sabha and Samithi. The members of the Samithi were elected through a system which is not clear because it is not well-recorded.

An institution from Uttiramerur in Tamil Nadu gives a detailed description of the process of election for a local body. The candidates who want to contest an election must have certain qualification according to those times. The method is interesting. It consisted of the names of the contesting candidates written on palm leaves and all such ballot papers were put into a pot.

A boy was asked to pick up the number of ballot papers as required by the local body and their names were announced on the spot. Whatever may be the system, the motto is one and the same and that is to give an opportunity to all the citizens and contestants with some minor variations.

PM performs Lotus Thulabharam at Guruvayur Krishna Temple

New Delhi, June 8- Prime Minister Narendra Modi this morning offered prayers at the famous Guruvayur Krishna Temple in Kerala before heading to the Maldives which will be his first overseas visit in his second term as Prime Minister.

PM Modi arrived in a special naval helicopter from Kochi (where he arrived last night) at Sree Krishna College Ground near the temple at 9.50 am. He was accompanied by Kerala Governor P. Sathasivam, Union Minister of State for External Affairs V. Muraleedharan and Kerala Devaswom Minister Kadakampally Surendran to the temple where he was received with a traditional poornakumbham (pot full of offerings).

Dressed in mundu and veshti (white shawl), the traditional dress of Kerala, PM Modi performed the ritual of "Thulabharam" in which he weighed himself against 100-kg of lotus flowers on a giant scale. He also offered various items including ghee, a special variety of red banana (kathali), among other things.

After praying at the temple, PM Modi will address party workers in Trissur. This is PM Modi's first visit to Kerala after the BJP's landslide victory in the national election.

The Prime Minister's visit to Kerala coincides with the tour of Congress President Rahul Gandhi in his Constituency of Wayanad in Northern Kerala. Rahul Gandhi, who reached Wayanad on Friday, is scheduled to participate in at least 15 public receptions across the Constituency in the next two days.

PM Modi had visited the Guruvayur temple in 2008 after he became the Chief Minister of Gujarat for a second time. From Kerala, PM Modi will begin his two-day official visit to the Maldives and Sri Lanka.

Praying for rains... again & again

It is that time of the year again, when it is time to pray for rains again. Earlier this month our State Government ordered prominent temples under the Muzrai Department, which are 'financially sound,' to perform special pujas on June 6 to invoke the Rain Gods. The cost? Rs. 10,000 per puja to be taken from the devotees' offering. This money would have otherwise gone to the State exchequer.

To begin with, devotees donated to the Gods thanking them for their blessings, now we are taking Gods' money and giving it back to them seeking another blessing? In short, instead of forcing the public to recycle water, the Government is recycling Gods' money to appease the Gods! We are not surprised, after all politicians are good at this, don't they use tax-payers' money to bribe tax-payers, to buy their votes?!

In our State already 156 of 176 taluks have been declared drought-stricken. Around 3,000 villages in the State are sourcing drinking water from private tankers. Meanwhile, about 450 financially sound temples have spent Rs.10,000 on pujas, that is about Rs. 45 lakh! Wouldn't it have been more prudent if the Muzrai Department used this money to fund drinking water for these villages? The only saving grace is that it is not as bad as what former Muzrai Minister Kota Srinivas Poojari did in 2012.

In an announcement that was a slap on all tax-payers, the Minister decided to give Rs. 5,000 each to 34,000 temples coming under his Department across the State to perform the puja. This cost the State exchequer over Rs. 17 crore. The Minister said that it was "Purely a spiritual event to invoke divine forces." He conveniently mixed up spirituality with religion.

If prayer is the answer, then why must only temples perform pujas and prayers? Why not the Government pay money to Mosques and Churches? They too can perform a special prayer asking the Gods to rain upon us. After all, in the Bible didn't Elijah pray for rain, and does it not say, "Then he prayed again, and heaven gave rain, and the earth bore its fruit"? The Muslims too have the Salat-ul-Istisqa; a prayer specifically meant to bring rains. So let us increase the chances of rain by paying all these religious centres.

When a nation is too religious, instead of finding long-term solutions and electing visionary leaders, it resorts to praying. And we are not alone in this.

In 2017, Sheikh Zayed, President of the UAE, had called for a prayer for rains to be performed in all Mosques throughout the country at 11.30 am on Friday.

In the United States, the Governor of the overtly Christian State of Texas signed a proclamation declaring April 22 to 24, 2011 the "Days of Prayer for Rain in Texas." The prayer didn't work. There was no rain for another 4 months !

Yes, one needs faith, but you can't leave your fate in the hands of faith alone. As it is said, "God helps those who help themselves."

This reminds me of the Israelis. Yes, they pray for rains too, but they found scientific solutions also. Their Prophet, Moses, had warned them that the land he is taking them to was, "Unlike the decadent fleshpots of Egypt with its fertile flatlands lushly irrigated by the Nile, the land given by God is hilly and without great rivers to provide it with water."

So Israelis did not just pray, they invented drip irrigation. They started growing crops that required less water but were just as nutritious. They recycled their water (80% of waste water generated in Israel is reused). They invented desalination plants to make seawater potable. And today, while Israel continues to pray for rains as a matter of faith, they also have surplus water, thanks to technology.

In fact, they not only export water to their neighbouring nations but make about 4 billion dollars a year selling water technology to other nations ! Yes, they have faith, but they also understand that God helps those who help themselves.

What have we done? Just day before yesterday, our Water Resources Minister speaking to reporters said, "As a precautionary measure, the Government is organising puja. We prayed in the wee hours after taking blessings from the pontiff of Sringeri Mutt."

How we wish they worked till the wee hours finding scientific solutions to the perennial water problem. How we wish they pushed for compulsory rain-water harvesting (it is said that even if a mere 20% practiced it, Karnataka will have enough water). How we wish they fixed water-loss during distribution (Bengaluru alone loses over 45% water during distribution in the form of broken pipes, illegal water connections and water tanker mafia!)

How we wish instead of praying at Talacauvery, they protected the trees in Kodagu from timber smugglers and sand mafia. How we wish they set rules for water re-usage; force people to have separate lines for reusable sink water and bath water. How we wish they rejuvenated Lakes and stopped land mafia from filling them up to sell as sites. Sadly, there is no serious attempt being made by the Government to do any of these.

Worse, they are not even inclined to find a scientific solution that is guaranteed to give results, but a great deal of time and money is being spent on praying that does not guarantee a result. Unfortunately, the public also does not care to save water.

For now, may be the Government thinks that smoke from the havan will induce the clouds to shed their water weight? Yes, the State is parched and dry but looks like our Government is also parched of intellect, a sense of service and vision. And we urban residents too have lost the fear of 'scarcity.'

If puja is the answer, then may be it is time they give some funds to the Department of Administrative Reforms to perform Saraswathi Puja to give some buddhi to our leaders and babus. And may be even us, the public, to do our own bit to save water without being forced to by the Government.

Streets of Yore

The streets of Mysuru are rich in history and steeped in yore. Hidden within street names are the occupations, owners, and even hobbies of the people who lived there centuries ago. A few of the street names include Kumbarageri, Kurubageri, Bandikeri, Gollageri, Halladakeri, Garadikeri, Thogari Beedi, Agasara Keri, Medarakeri, Budududuke Keri and Kamatageri. Many houses in some of the streets still have small cavities on both sides of the walls at the frontal entrances to keep earthen lamps — a feature missing in all the newly-built houses. Senior Journalist Gouri Satya discovers the unique and extraordinary origins of street names in this Weekend Star Supplement.

Mysuru: A Look at its Past...

By Gouri Satya, Sr.Journalist

Kumbarageri, Kurubageri, Halladakeri, Thogari Beedi, Agasara Keri, Medarakeri, Budududuke Keri, Kamatageri...

What's in a name ? Your link to History

In my earlier two articles on Mohallas, Agraharas, Keris and Purams in Mysuru, I briefly mentioned about those places while in the last article, my focus was on Sunnadakeri in Krishnaraja Mohalla. In this article I intend to highlight about a few Keris as their names reveal their past history.

Halladakeri is similar to Sunnadakeri covering not just a street but an area with narrow streets in Mandi Mohalla. Although it is difficult to say how this area came to be known as Halladakeri, going by its name it might have been an area with a vast pit where some small houses existed in the early days when Mysuru was (bounded by) within the Palace Fort.

A bird's eye view of Halladakeri and the adjoining KSRTC Sub-urban Bus Stand in Mysuru against the backdrop of Chamundi Hill.

A Jain Temple at Halladakeri. Jains dominate the area and to cater to the religious needs many Jain temples have come up in the area that was once populated by Brahmins.

Concentration of Jains

Unlike a few decades back, today, this entire area has a new look and a new name too. It is now called Mahaveer Nagar. Rajasthani and Sindhi merchants have inhabited here adding a new dimension to the area. Old houses have been replaced with two or three-storey modern structures.

A Jain temple has been built to meet the religious needs of the Jain community living there. One can see them visiting the temple attired in their traditional religious dresses in mornings and evenings conversing in their language, a total change to the days when Brahmin priests were hurrying to the temples in the Palace or for conducting some ceremony or the other in some house, in their traditional religious dhotis. There are hardly one or two Brahmin families now who were the original inhabitants in the Keri.

The area earlier was dotted with traditional houses, having roofs of country-tiles, in which lived Brahmin families. Of them, most were priests and were held in high esteem. They were often invited by Brahmin residents in Agraharas or by Ursu families for one or the other religious ceremonies. A few residents had set up small shops to sell groceries to the residents.

I remember going to that area in the late 50s to my aunt's old house accompanied by my mother. But when I visited the Keri recently, I was surprised to see the vast change that had taken place. I could meet only one Brahmin resident who was still running a small grocery shop. The sign-board of the shop continued to display the name, "Halladakeri", reminding one the name the area had in the past. His was the only house of yesteryears, while the rest were new ones. He proudly said his shop was the only place where the old name still existed in the area.

From there when we go to the adjacent Lashkar Mohalla, we come across two Keris – Kumbarageri and Kurubageri.

'Kumbarageri' near Ashoka Road was a colony of traditional potters or 'Kumbaras' in Lashkar Mohalla. 'Kumbha' means pot. For generations, these artisans were engaged in making mud pots, idols and earthen lamps of different sizes and varieties. They mixed clay to a right consistency and made clay lamps by hand, and dried them in the sun before baking and selling them.

An old signboard in Kannada shows Second Vakkalageri or Vokkalageri Main Road.

Alternative to electricity

When electricity was yet to come, residents in old Mysuru placed earthen lamps in front of their houses to light up the place during nights. There were small carved cavities on both sides of the walls at the entrance for placing these lamps lit with wicks. Such holes may be seen at the front entrances of some old houses now also.

Mud pots sold by these pot-makers were used for cooking and storing water in houses, in addition to copper and brass vessels. Those who could not afford metal vessels used mud pots in their houses. The earthen lamps had a good demand during Deepavali when more of them were lit in front of houses to celebrate the festival of lights.

At one time, there were over 100 potters in this area. They were making as many as 30,000 traditional lamps for lighting houses and for Deepavali. Their number has dwindled to about 30-40 today. They, however, continue to make idols like Lakshmi, Ganesha and Gowri required for festive occasions like Deepavali and Gowri-Ganesha.

As attractive 'Diyas' from Rajasthan are flooding the market, demand for age-old traditional lamps has decreased considerably. Similar is the case with pots. Consequently, the pot-makers in Mysuru have almost given up their age-old profession.

Close to the Kshetriah Road is the 'Agasarageri' in Chamaraja Mohalla. As the name indicates, this street housed laundry men or 'Dhobies'. Though the street is named 'Madivalara Beedi' now, there are a few signboards that still sport 'Agasarageri' .

Yore stories and your stories...

'Medar' families at 'Medarakeri' in Vidyaranyapuram make bamboo baskets of different sizes and shapes. Environment-friendly 'Mora' and 'Gerase' are in good demand during the Gowri festival. Picture right shows an improvised bullock cart with vehicle tyres from Bandikeri carrying goods to the market.

Another Kumbarageri

There is another 'Kumbarageri' near Paduvarahalli, an exclusive area where potters were engaged in similar profession of making clay lamps, pots and other earthen ware. This place is now called 'Kumbarakoppal'.

Here too they produced clay lamps in thousands, particularly for the Deepavali festival. At one time, they were making as many as ten lakh earthen lamps. Over 25-30 families were making these lamps throughout the year. There are hardly one or two now and they make less than 20,000 lamps. Most of the potters and their children have given up their traditional profession and have taken up other jobs.

A place to procure warm Kamblis

'Kurubageri', also in Lashkar Mohalla, is another prominent street where resided 'Kurubas' or shepherds. They reared sheep and goats. Besides selling well-grown sheep to butchers for supplying meat to customers, they also reared sheep for wool which they would sell to those who wove 'kamblis' (rugs of rough variety) or for making carpets.

As machine-woven rugs were not in vogue those days, the humble 'kamblis' were in good demand. Their prices ranged depending on their softness. This was an attractive profession for many. Weaving of these rough variety rugs and carpets has almost disappeared today.

Many wrestlers lived here

Another Keri in Lashkar Mohalla is 'Garadikeri', where a number of wrestlers lived. It was a matter of prestige for the wrestlers in Mysuru, who many a few decades ago, used to wrestle before the Maharaja in front of the Palace during the Dasara festival. There were many Garadis, or wrestling houses too, to train these wrestlers and training was given by master-wrestlers.

If we come to Chamaraja Mohalla and Krishnaraja Mohalla on the other side of the city, we come across many Keris. The present Kshetriah Road, which runs parallel to Ramavilasa Road, was called 'Hale Bandikeri'. It came to be known as Bandikeri probably because bullock carts were parked there, as the very name 'Bandi' suggests. Probably, nearby villagers came to this Keri to sell their produce in the adjacent Santhepete.

Later on, this Road came to be called 'Thogari Beedi'. A number of Ganiga community members, who came to settle down here, had taken to selling Tur dal. In the 1950s and 60s, one could see freshly harvested 'Thogari' seeds spread on large mats on this street and its narrow cross lanes. After the wet seeds sun-dried, it was split and sold to the retail traders in Santhepete and other places. However, after a decade or two, they gave up their profession and many moved out of the street also. This street is now called 'Kshetriah Road'.

Another interesting aspect about this street is Bandikeri coming to be known as 'Hale' Bandikeri or 'Old' Bandikeri. It began to be called the old, when a new street by the same name emerged in the Chamundi Extension, now a part of Vidyaranyapuram, as the city expanded in that direction, and it was called 'Hosa' (new) Bandikeri. Here too bullock cart owners lived offering their carts for transporting goods. This street, however, has retained its name and is called 'Hosa Bandikeri' even now.

From Agasara Keri to Madivalara Beedi

Close to the Kshetriah Road is the 'Agasarakeri' in the Chamaraja Mohalla. It is a cross road to the Narayana Sastry Road. As the name indicates, this street housed laundry men or 'Dhobies'.

The present Kshetriah Road 8th Cross, which runs parallel to Ramavilasa Road that was called 'Hale Bandikeri'.

These 'Agasas' or laundry men collected clothes from the rich and the royal and returned them freshly washed. As they were accommodated close to the Subbarayanakere tank, they had easy access to water for washing the laundry.

Even today, there are one or two families eking out a living by washing and pressing clothes in their small shops in and around this 'Agasara Keri' or the 'street of laundrymen'. However, of recent, a sign board saying 'Madivalara Beedi' has been installed, which also means the Keri of laundrymen.

One of the cross roads to the Chamaraja Double Road is the 'Bestharageri', also in Chamaraja Mohalla. Here lived fishermen or 'Besthas'. They generally went for fishing in the Kukkarahalli Lake, which is about half a mile away. As majority of those residing in the 'Keris' were non-vegetarians, these fishermen were selling fish in these places or elsewhere.

Where milkmen resided

'Gollageri' is another street in Chamaraja Mohalla. Here resided 'Gollas' or milkmen. They kept cows for supplying milk to the local residents.

A street in Vidyaranyapuram area is called 'Medarakeri'. 'Medar' families who made bamboo baskets of different sizes and shapes and other bamboo products were living in this area. They were generally seen sitting in front of their small houses and weaving bamboo baskets of various shapes and sizes.

The environment-friendly 'Mora' and 'Gerase' are in good demand during the Gowri festival. Some basket-weavers may be seen weaving baskets or 'Mora' now also. Many of them sell them at the Vanivilasa Market particularly during the Gowri festival season.

'Budududuke Keri' and 'Kamatageri'

Similar to these, there are a number of other 'Keris' like 'Budududuke Keri' where men who went around seeking alms playing budududuke (a small drum-like instrument) lived, 'Vokkalageri' near Asoka Road, 'Kamatageri' in Mandi Mohalla', and 'Kakarageri' in K.R. Mohalla.

'Vokkalu' in Kannada means cultivators or agriculturists owning farmlands. May be the community of cultivators, who are termed Vokkaligas, lived there, separating grains from the harvested crop by winnowing. 'Kamati' means a worker, generally engaged in construction work.

Project to fill 13 Lakes

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, Mariswamy, Assistant Engineer, Minor Irrigation and Groundwater Improvement said that the total project cost is Rs. 50 crore and the State Government has given administrative approval. The project report was sent to the government on 25.2.2019 and the administrative approval came on 1.3.2019.

Tenders have been called for the project from private parties and the tender process ended on May 31. Mariswamy said that a couple of private firms have applied for tender.

The lakes to be filled with KRS water are Lingambudhi Lake, Kergalli Lake, Maratikyathanahalli Lake, Dasanakoppal Lake, Jatti Hundi Lake, Huilalu Lake 1, Huilalu Lake 2, Sahukarahundi Lake, Bommanahalli Lake, Belawadi Lake, Nagavala Lake, Eraiyyanakoppalu Lake and Karkanahalli Lake. Water to the Lingambudhi Lake will be filled in the end once water is filled to other lakes as Lingambudhi Lake comes at the far end of the project.

The KRS backwater will be supplied from Anandooru through 'Rising Main Pipe' technology. From Anandooru the distance to Lingambudhi Lake is 26.4 kms. Three motors of 680 HP each will be set up near Alkamma Temple. While two motors will be used to pump water, one motor will be a stand-by, Mariswamy explained.

While 16-km pipeline will be laid with pipes that are 50 mm in diameter, the other 16-km pipes will be of 450 mm in diameter. This is to ensure that more water is sucked in initially and it reaches the other end by sheer force.

"Water from KRS backwaters will be pumped for 110 days a year and the pumps can draw 36.04 cusecs of water per second. In all, we need 24.04 Million Cubic Feet of water for 13 lakes," he added.

Pipeline will be laid on the roadside and as such there is no need of any land acquisition. In some areas the pipeline passes through private lands and compensation will be paid for the land acquisition accordingly. Once the government clears the project and tenders are finalised, it will take about 6 months to one year to complete the project.

"The government has taken up this project considering depleting lake water levels and the sinking groundwater levels where one can't even get water if 1,000 feet borewells are drilled. The private party that takes up the implementation of the project will have to maintain it for five years and later it will be taken up by the government," Mariswamy said.

Demand to fill lakes in Mysuru too

Reacting on the State Government project to fill 13 lakes using KRS backwaters, environmentalists and green activists have demanded that the project must be extended not just to Lingambudhi Lake but also Kukkarahalli Lake and Karanji Lake which usually go dry in summer.

Already the Irrigation Department is laying pipelines to fill 13 lakes. This project can be extended to Mysuru city also as many of the lakes go dry. If all the lakes are filled, groundwater too will be recharged and at the same time it will provide a fresh lease of life for aquatic and bird species, they said.

In her death, ex-Corporator gives a gift of life

Mysuru, June 8 (BCT)- Former Corporator Meenakshi Mahadevaswamy, who passed away in city on May 31, has provided a gift of life to people as her organs have been harvested. Her liver and cornea was harvested at Apollo BGS Hospital in city and the liver has been transplanted to a patient who was waiting for the organ for more than 6 months. And the good news is that the organ recipient is healthy.

Meenakshi Mahadevaswamy

Incidentally, Meenakshi was the Health Standing Committee Chairman at the Mysuru City Corporation (1990-95). She passed away after a brief illness. N.G. Bharateesha Reddy, Vice-President and Unit Head, Apollo BGS Hospitals, Mysuru has thanked Meenakshi's family for the noble gesture.

Sixty-six-year-old Meenakshi Mahadevaswamy went unconscious at her home on May 30 and was wheeled into Apollo Hospital at 5 am in a critical condition. Initial CT scan showed brain stem infarct. She was shifted to ICU for life support and intensive care.

She was kept on life support the whole night and the next day, she was declared brain dead due to brain stem failure. As per the hospital protocol stipulated by the Transplant of Human Organs Act 1994, a panel of doctors examined her and found that Meenakshi was healthy before the incident and further tests confirmed her eligibility for organ donation.

The doctors next counselled the patient's family members on organ donation as per the defined protocol. The deceased patient's brother and relatives came forward to donate Meenakshi's organs. As per organ donation protocols, officials from 'Jeeva Sarthakathe' which was earlier known as ZCCK (Zonal Coordination Committee of Karnataka for Organ Transplantation) initiated the process as per the organ recipient waiting list.

At around 10 am on May 31, Meenakshi's organs (liver and cornea) were retrieved and the liver was transplanted into a recipient waiting for the organ for more than six months and who was registered with 'Jeeva Sarthakathe'.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Daksh Betsurmath, Marketing Manager of Apollo BGS Hospital said that the liver recipient's health was good. The process of cornea transplant was on. "Apollo BGS Hospital is the licenced liver and kidney transplant unit in Mysuru and the hospital has performed many liver and kidney transplants in the past," he added.

Cut off marks for English Department

sparks row at UoM Academic Council Meeting

Mysuru, June 8 (RKB&NNN)- The contentious issue of minimum marks for admission to post-graduation in English sparked off a row at the Academic Council meeting held at Crawford Hall yesterday.

University regulations has fixed 40 percent marks for SC/ST and 45 percent marks for general category students to appear for Common Entrance Test to join any course in the University. However, when it comes to Department of English, the cut off marks has been fixed at 45 percent for SC/ST and 50 percent for general category students.

This has resulted in poor admissions especially from rural and poor students. This issue was brought to light by Chamarajanagar PG Centre Director Prof. Shivabasavaiah at the meeting.

To benefit the SC/ST students from Chamarajanagar district, MA in English was started in 2013-14. It continued till 2017. However, in 2017 and last year, since many students could not get marks eligible to gain admissions to the course, it was not possible to continue this department. Students had also complained about this, said Prof. Shivabasavaiah.

In the Manasagangothri Post Graduate campus, admissions for all the 65 subjects have been fixed at 40 percent for SC/ST and 45 percent for general students. However, only in English Department, according to the Board of Studies, the admission criteria have been fixed at 45 percent for SC/ST and 50 percent for general category students.

University of Mysore Vice-Chancellor Prof. G. Hemantha Kumar chairing the Academic Council meeting at Crawford Hall yesterday as Registrar Prof. Lingaraja Gandhi, MLC Appaji Gowda and Registrar (Evaluation) Prof. K.M. Mahadevan look on.

Prof. Shivabasavaiah also pointed out that many rural students who had scored 44 marks in SC/ST category and 49 marks in general category had complained that they had missed a chance to join English course due to the cut off marks. Though this issue was brought to the notice of the Board of Studies several times, it was ignored, he added.

However, the Dean Faculty of Arts Prof. Mahadev objected to this line of argument. According to him, the main reason for this is the lack of feeder colleges that offered BA courses.

He also strongly reiterated that the quality of students could not be comprised because of lack of students. The idea of reducing the cut off marks just to increase the intake is against the autonomy of the Board of Studies and besides the decision taken earlier will be in force for three years and this cannot be withdrawn at any cost, he added.

But Prof. Shivabasavaiah's argument found more takers at the meeting as many members supported his point of allowing students from backward areas to come to the mainstream instead of denying them the opportunity of pursuing higher education.

Vice Chancellor Prof. G. Hemantha Kumar, who chaired the meeting, finally intervened and said that a sub-committee would be constituted to look into the matter and a decision will be taken at the earliest in this academic year itself.

M.Sc. Yogic Science Course: The Academic Council has approved to set up the Department of Yogic Science.

The Department will come up at the new building of Department of Law and the eligibility criteria for the course will be any degree. There is no age limit for this course. However, the entrance examination is mandatory as per the University guidelines and there are 40 seats available.

The strength of the faculty will be seven and they will have M.Sc, Ph.D, NET (National Eligibility Test) or SET (State Eligibility Test) as per UGC norms. The University has constituted a Yogic Sciences panel to prepare a report and it has prepared a syllabus also.

Physical Education: The University is also planning to start Physical Education and Sports Sciences in under-graduate courses. But, first it will form a committee to look into the formalities of the course.

336 vacant posts will be filled as per UGC directive

Mysuru, June 8-The 336 vacant posts at University of Mysore will be filled within six months.

This decision based on the University Grants Commission (UGC) guidelines, was taken at the Academic Council meeting chaired by Prof. G. Hemantha Kumar at the Crawford Hall yesterday. The UGC has warned of withholding the grants if the University does not follow its directions.

There has been no recruitment for several years and hence many posts are lying vacant. A total of 336 posts have to be filled that includes 54 posts reserved for Hyderabad-Karnataka region and 76 backlog posts (total 130). Later the remaining 206 posts will be filled according to roster system.

Prof. Hemantha Kumar said that by filling the vacant posts, the University will get a higher grade from the National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC), which is likely to visit the University next year.

Mysore Varsity presents Rs. 2.98 crore deficit budget

Mysuru, June 8 (RKB&NNN)- University of Mysore Registrar Prof. Lingaraja Gandhi presented a deficit budget of Rs.2.98 crore for the year 2019-20 at the Academic Council meeting held yesterday at Crawford Hall.

The University had submitted a proposal for Rs.183.31 crore to the State Government. But the government has sanctioned Rs. 125.45 crore only. However, the University will generate Rs.115.50 crore through internal sources. This academic year, the University will face a shortfall of Rs.2.98 crore. Meanwhile, the University has prepared a budge of Rs. 252.80 crore, he said.

There are 1,688 pensioners in the University and Rs. 70 crore has been earmarked this year for them. As Development grant, the Government has given approval for release of Rs. 1 crore.

An action plan has been prepared and it has been decided to fully utilise the grant, said Prof. Gandhi.

There is an anticipation of Rs.24.62 crore grant for Centrally and State-sponsored programmes besides from UGC and DBT (Direct Benefit Transfer) and this will be utilised according to the guidelines provided. The Central Government under RUSA (Rashtriya Uchchatar Shiksha Abhiyan) has sanctioned Rs.7.5 crore under Entrepreneurship and Career Hub, under Research and Innovation Component Management Monitoring and Research programmes.

Out of this, 40 per cent will be provided by the State Government and the Central Government will provide the remaining 60 per cent funds, he said.

UGC gives 6 months to fill faculty vacancies at all Colleges, Varsities

New Delhi, June 8- All Colleges, Universities and Deemed Universities have been given a six-month deadline to fill up their faculty vacancies, via a process that will be monitored at every step by the Ministry of Human Resource Development (MHRD) and the University Grants Commission (UGC). Institutions which fail to meet the deadline were warned that their UGC grants may be withheld.

Pushing recruitment into mission mode, UGC issued revised guidelines, noting that "shortage of quality teaching faculty in HEIs (Higher Educational Institutions) is one amongst the many issues confronting the higher education system in the country".

There are at least 5,000 vacant positions in 48 Central Universities alone. UGC oversees over 900 Universities and more than 40,000 Colleges across the country.

"HEIs should ensure that all the vacant posts, along with the reservation details, are uploaded on the online portal https://nherc.in. The monitoring of the filling up of the vacancies would be done by the MHRD and UGC through this portal," said the revised guidelines. The portal belongs to the National Higher Education Research Centre (NHERC) run by the MHRD.

The six-month timeline allows 15 days for the identification of vacant posts, the details of which must be uploaded on the NHERC portal by June 20, 2019. Within 30 days thereafter, the competent authority of each institution is required to give its approval to fill up the vacancies.

The posts must then be advertised in the next 15 days, and Selection Committees constituted simultaneously, with dates fixed for their meetings.

By the end of the fourth month, applications must be scrutinised and interview letters sent to shortlisted candidates and also uploaded on the institution's website.

The fifth month is reserved for conducting interviews and selecting the final candidates.

By the end of six months, appointment letters should have been issued, and uploaded on NHERC portal. "Violations of the guidelines may lead to appropriate action by the UGC against the institutions including withholding the grants."

'Spoorthi-2019' four-day motivational camp at Kodava Samaja in city

Mysuru, June 8 (PM&DM)- Maj. Gen. Codanda K. Karumbaya (retd.) has regretted that the State Government has given preference to performing puja for rains rather than taking up green initiatives and eco-friendly measures.

He was speaking after delivering the inaugural address of 'Spoorthi-2019,' a four-day motivational camp-cum-workshop organised by Kodava Deenabandhu Charitable Trust for its beneficiaries at Kodava Samaja premises in Vijayanagar here yesterday.

Highlighting that it is important to learn Hindi as it is the most spoken language in the country and widely used in the Armed Forces, he exhorted the students to get well-versed in all three languages, as it is vital for their career growth.

Emphasising on the need for maintaining discipline in life, he opined that studying is key for acquiring knowledge.

Noting that hard work, dedication, determination and honesty is key for personality growth, he called upon the participants to make best use of the camp.

Lauds Modi's leadership

Maj. Gen. Karumbaya, in his address, lauded Prime Minister Modi's leadership qualities.

The Spaniard broke the Swiss icon six times, crucially in the third and ninth games of the second set, en route to doubling his advantage.

He then broke twice more in the third set as he completed his masterclass.

Nadal will now play either Novak Djokovic, looking to hold all four Grand Slam titles, or Austrian D. Thiem in Sunday's final.

WORD OF THE DAY

Stellate

Pronunciation: Stel-it, -eyt.

Meaning: Arranged like rays or radii; radiating from a common centre; "radial symmetry"; "a starlike or stellate arrangement of petals"; "many cities show a radial pattern of main highways."

Stellate comes straight from the Latin adjective stellātus, formed from the noun stella "star" and -ātus, a suffix that forms adjectives from nouns. The noun stella comes from an unrecorded stēr-lā or stēr-o-lā. Stēr- comes from a very widespread Proto-Indo-European root ster-, stēr- "star," appearing in Sanskrit star-, Germanic (English) star. Greek preserves the most ancient form, aster, the a- being the remainder of a Proto-Indo-European laryngeal consonant. Stellate entered English at the end of the 15th century.

Example: The oval leaves are dark-green above, and whitish with stellate hairs beneath, the margin entire and slightly recurved.

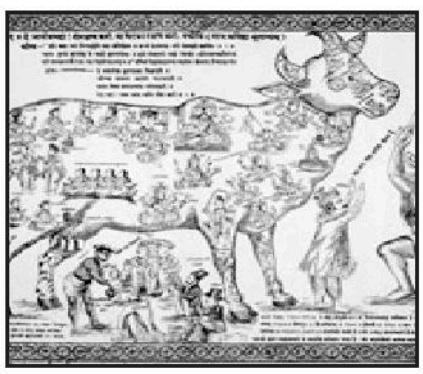
THE ODD WORD

Snollygoster

A shrewd, unprincipled person, especially a politician.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Sacred Cow



Meaning: An individual, organisation, institution, etc., considered to be exempt from criticism or questioning.

Origin: This term is an allusion to the Hindu reverence for cows. The first use in English found of the term 'sacred cow' is in an American newspaper from the 1850s in a letter that was sent by Wady Jahed, an Indian emigre, living in Janesville, Wisconsin, to The Calcutta Times. Mr Jahed sent the letter on the'17th day of the 6th Moon' and The Janesville Free Press printed it in January 1854.
